SIGHTSEEING

Located on the confluence of many rivers and of the Nantes-Brest canal, Redon use to have an important economical part to play in the exchange of salt and materials. However fluvial trade gave way to sailing and nautical activities. Redon is famous for its teillouse feast which celebrates chestnuts in November, as well as its Golden Bogue festival gathering traditional musicians and storytellers. You may enjoy varied visits such as the artisanal village in Gacilly with the Yves Rocher vegetarianism, the house for nature and the megaliths to be found on Saint-Just's archeological site, the harbor with its salt stores, the inland water shipping museum in Redon, the automobile museum in Lohéac and the natural site that is the magpie island. This sporty yet relaxed tour has no major difficulty and will enable you to discover both the Vilaine and the Nantes-Brest canal on the Oust and the Aff through a fine stroll in inland Brittany.
